By signing the Worker's time sheet, the Client Company accepts that the hours recorded by the Worker as having been worked are correct and that the Worker has performed satisfactorily at all material times. However, the failure on the part of the Client Company to sign a time sheet shall not in itself affect the Client Company's liability to pay the Employment Business at the Hourly Rate for each hour worked by the Worker.
2. The Employment Business shall invoice the Client Company at the Hourly Rate for all of the hours or part hours worked by the Worker (to the nearest quarter hour) as recorded on his/her time sheet and the Client Company agrees to pay to the Employment Business by cheque or credit transfer within 7 days of the date of the Employment Business' invoice a sum which shall not be less than the said total number of hours worked by the Worker for the Client Company multiplied by the Hourly Rate, plus any claimable expenses and Value Added Tax (at the statutory rate from time to time). The Client Company warrants that it will not require the Worker to work more than 48 hours a week unless the Employment Business has informed the Client Company that the Worker has opted out of the 48 hour working week in accordance with the Working Time Regulations 1998. The Client Company will assist the Employment Business in complying with the Working Time Regulations 1998 by supplying any relevant information to the Employment Business and the Client Company agrees not to do anything to cause the Agency to be in breach of its obligations under the Working Time Regulations 1998.
9. The Client Company agrees that if the Worker is required to work for more than nine hours (eight hours for Industrial Divisions) on one weekday or any hours on a Saturday (hereinafter referred to as "overtime hours"), an overtime premium will be applied.
